The application fee and payment plan carrying fee are non-refundable.

Admissions: The Center for Self Leadership (CSL) reserves the right to deny acceptance to any training program applicant and to withdraw a training participant from all or part of a training program at any time if CSL determines a participant's behavior could damage the quality of a training program. CSL, in its sole discretion, may terminate a participant's participation at any time and, in such event, will refund tuition paid to CSL for portions of the training the participant will not attend as a result of his/her termination.

Schedule: CSL reserves the right to postpone, cancel or otherwise change any training program schedule prior to its beginning. At no time is CSL responsible for training students' travel, lodging, or incidental expenses. CSL reserves the right to substitute training staff whenever necessary without obligation to students enrolled in the training.

Photography/recording: Participants may not make audio or visual recordings of any part of any IFS training session. If occasional informal photographs or other recordings are made at gatherings related to this training (excluding in-session periods), participants agree that these photographs or other recordings may be used by CSL for purposes related to its mission. CSL's trainers may, on some occasions, make audio and/or video recordings of themselves while teaching in order to comply with CSL's trainer evaluation process – only trainer staff members will be visible and audible in any of these recordings, and the sharing or circulating of these recordings is prohibited, except with a few, key CSL employees.

Dual/Multiple Relationships: The Center for Self Leadership, Inc. (CSL) is committed to doing everything possible to maintain the safety and ethics of its highly experiential Internal Family SystemsSM (IFSSM) training programs. To that end, CSL is sensitive to the potential difficulties of any type of dual/multiple relationship between trainer and participant, or participant and participant. Therefore, CSL recommends that you review the roster for your program (CSL will email it to you prior to the start of your program) and determine if you are in an unworkable dual/multiple relationship with anyone. If you are in an unworkable dual/multiple relationship with someone, particularly supervisory or therapeutic, CSL advises you to speak with that person before beginning the training. CSL acknowledges that dual/multiple relationships need to remain confidential and thus CSL cannot be held liable for their existence in its training programs. In order to respect the confidentiality of your dual/multiple relationship, please address the situation directly. It is the responsibility of the therapist in a therapist-client dual/multiple relationship, and of the supervisor in a supervisor-supervisee dual/multiple relationship to address the situation. Different states, provinces, and other governmental jurisdictions may have different policies regarding dual/multiple relationships for counselors, therapists, and other professionals for whom dual/multiple relationships may exist. Therefore, training participants are expected to take responsibility for checking with their particular and applicable governing policies, and for adhering to the professional standards for dual/multiple relationships outlined therein. Participants in CSL trainings are also expected to adhere to the governing policies of their professional disciplines regarding dual/multiple relationships. If a Lead, Co-Lead, Guest or Assistant Trainer, or an Assistant Trainer Mentee believes that s/he has an unworkable dual/multiple relationship with a training applicant, the training applicant may not enroll in this particular training.
