

The Training Program

We are excited to present an IFSSM Level 2 (Advanced) Multi-topic curriculum that will include a format, similar to Level 1, of didactic, video, large group experiential, and small group practice elements. Each of the four weekends will focus on different content areas that will expand your knowledge of and facility with IFS and will continue your personal growth. The program will be taught by several of the senior IFS trainers and students will be exposed to their different styles and expertise.

The first weekend is designed to: (1) form a new, connected and safe training group, (2) assess where each student is with the model and identify and address common stuck-points with the model, and (3) build new skills and increase ability to hold Self energy.

The second weekend is focused on the challenges of treating traumatized clients and will include new content and videos as well as lots of practice time.

The third weekend focuses on how to work with multi-person systems, with a particular focus on treating couples, but also extrapolating to families, groups, and organizations. This will also include new content and a new outline for couples treatment with clear steps that will be practiced.

The fourth weekend will emphasize the importance of the therapeutic relationship and also explore the spiritual aspects of the model.

Location:

All trainings will be held at on the campus of Central Connecticut State University in New Britain, CT. Directions and information regarding accommodations will be made available on acceptance.

The Power of the IFS Model

If you are searching for an effective therapeutic approach for difficult clinical situations, one that invigorates your clinical work with a sense of awe and adventure, the IFS training program presents exciting possibilities. The IFS model encourages both therapists and clients to collaborate in inner journeys of self-discovery, healing, and empowerment.

The IFS model will give you tools to be:

Flexible: The model's principles and techniques are equally effective with individuals, couples and families.

Focused and clear: The steps of the therapy are straightforward and intuitively understandable to therapists and to clients.

Respectful: IFS creates a safe, loving environment in which clients lead the work so they never feel pressured; moreover, they learn to trust their own resources.

Creative: Both client and therapist enjoy a sense of partnership that yields opportunities for deep insight and healing.

About the Trainers...

(Note: Trainer roster still being finalized; subject to change)

Ralph Cohen, PhD, LMFT is a Professor in the Department of Counseling and Family Therapy at Central Connecticut State University where he is director of the Master's program in Marriage and Family Therapy and coordinates the Internal Family Systems Continuing Education Program. He is an Approved Supervisor for the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy. He is a founding co-editor of the Journal of Self Leadership, an IFS-oriented professional publication. As a licensed psychologist and Marriage and Family therapist, Ralph has a private practice in West Hartford, CT, providing IFS-based therapy for individuals, couples, and families. Ralph is an IFS Lead Trainer.

Michael Elkin, M.A. is founder and director of the Center for Collaborative Solutions in Newton and Salem MA. He has been practicing therapy for over thirty years, and has presented training workshops throughout the US and in many other countries. He has developed innovative ways of understanding and treating addictive and compulsive behavior, and is currently most interested in the building and maintenance of successful relationships. His is the author of Families Under the Influence, and several articles. Mike is an IFS Senior Lead Trainer.

Ann L. Sinko, LMFT has over 20 years of clinical experience and is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist in Connecticut. She is in private practice and has been teaching as an adjunct Professor in the Marriage and Family Therapy Program at Central CT State University for 16 years. She has integrated IFS theory and technique in all facets of her creative work with families, couples, individuals and groups. She establishes a safe environment in which clients experience unconditional acceptance. She has a background in gestalt therapy and psychodrama and uses sand tray therapy in her work. Ann is passionate about teaching and believes that theory is best integrated through experiential learning. She brings a down to earth, concrete style along with a sense of humor to her teaching. Ann is an IFS Senior Lead Trainer.
